Climate change is directly impacting people’s lives. It has generated new risks and insecurities affecting home, family, health and environment. Faced with these growing risks, people are looking for responses regarding the action that can be taken and the real solutions that are available.

The Climate Group is an independent, award-winning, not-for-profit organisation dedicated to mitigating climate change and averting its worst effects. The Climate Group’s vision is a prosperous, low carbon future for all.

Empowering others is what The Climate Group stands for. We were one of the first NGOs in the world to focus exclusively on the unparalleled challenge of climate change and how best to equip the world’s leaders to respond. This year, we will reflect on a decade of empowering others and catalysing leadership – in many different sectors and countries, through many different projects.

Founded in 2004, The Climate Group has operations in China (Beijing and Hong Kong), Europe, India and North America.

Continuing Swarovski’s tradition of innovation through creative collaboration, uniquely cut crystal pieces were presented at the Maison Martin Margiela Haute Couture show, on July 2013 in Paris.

A new cut and cutting-edge fusion technique was developed for Maison Martin Margiela Crystalactite for Swarovski. The cut’s groundbreaking Crystal Fusion technique merges crystal and matte white resin during the production process, before being cut, making gluing unnecessary and creating a startling futuristic and avant-garde, asymmetric beauty.

In addition to the Haute Couture pieces, Atelier Swarovski also offered a limited edition collection inspired by the Crystalactite for SS14 featuring this brooch which displays the same standout futuristic and avant-garde. The fusion of Maison Martin Margiela’s clean and innovative style with the sparkling purity of Swarovski crystal makes it a perfect creative partnership.

This marks the beginning of a collaborative relationship with Maison Martin Margiela; the Atelier Swarovski limited edition collection is now available in selected stores and online.

Homage to the first IWC Portuguese watch of 1939, the luxury Swiss watchmaker presents the limited edition Portuguese Hand-Wound vintage men’s watch, one of only 500 pieces worldwide.

The Portuguese of 1939 is a true watch legend that stylistically comes as close as possible to the perfect ideal of a good watch design. As the first “wristwatch” it established the large size worn on the wrist that is very popular today. It got its name from the fact that just such a watch was requested by two Portuguese businessmen at the end of the 1930s. They wanted a high-precision watch that would embody their proud tradition as a seafaring nation. From the start the “Portuguese”, as it was only named years later, with all its features was an unofficial marine chronometer and laid out like a navigational instrument.

For the Portuguese Hand-Wound, from the numerous dials used for the original Portuguese, the most optically interesting one has been chosen—which has never been used for recent Portuguese watches: Arabic numerals and graduations for the indices alternate; the actual measuring range is separated off at the dial centre by another circle; the minute chapter ring is in the “chemin de fer”—railway—style very popular at the time. The same graphic elements also appear in the seconds display circle. The case (44 mm) with its fluted bezel and slightly pulled down strap lugs is in keeping with the original. The new Vintage Portuguese does differ from the original—and the 1993 anniversary model—in that it has antireflective, crossed out sapphire glass over the dial. It is powered by the 98295-calibre that is almost identical to the Vintage Pilot’s Watch movement: hand-wound, a balance frequency of 2.5 Hz, large screw balance, Breguet balance spring, nickel-plated silver three-quarter plate, pearled bridges decorated with Geneva stripes. The watch contains 18 sapphires and is classically finished with a black Crocodile Leather strap.

The Prince Albert II of Monaco Foundation is pleased to offer the possibility to accompany HSH Prince Albert II of Monaco on a two-day journey during which you will be able to board the world-famous TARA sailboat in the Northern Cyclades, home for the last colonies of the monk seal, one of the most endangered and emblematic Mediterranean mammals.

The Prince Albert II of Monaco Foundation has been supporting TARA’s scientific expeditions for many years. On board, the most brilliant specialists in oceanography, marine biology or ecology take turns depending on the ecosystems that the boat sails through.

This tremendous expedition is also an awareness-raising experience to discover, for a few hours, life onboard TARA and the missions of the boat.

In 2014, TARA heads to the Mediterranean, cradle of our civilisation, to carry on with its sample collection work and its advocacy for more sustainable development. This mission will be an occasion to highlight the numerous environmental issues in the Mediterranean, alongside regional and local associations.

In July, the boat will pass by the Northern Cyclades, where an island, a military test site for many years, is now deserted and has become paradise for monk seals, who find the calm that is indispensable for their development. The Foundation, together with its Italian and Greek partners, launched a project to protect the species with the setting up of a Marine Protected Area in this zone.

Thus, you will have the chance to take part, alongside HSH Prince Albert II of Monaco, in an exceptional immersion in TARA’s mission, participate in some of their activities and maybe have the unique chance to observe monk seals in their natural habitat.

RAFFLE PRIZE 03 RÉMY MARION SIGNED PHOTOGRAPH

The polar bear alone symbolises the vast expanses of the Far North. Lords of the Arctic, the bears appear to stroll across their territory as if nothing could harm them. Completely dependent on the sea ice which gives them access to their favourite prey—seals—these animals, perfectly suited to the harshest conditions, are sadly powerless in the face of rapid global warming.

This magnificent photo symbolises the end of a beautiful day on the shores of Hudson Bay where two young male bears play fight. Playfighting is a way of training for the battles they will have to fight when they want to mate. Beautiful light, beautiful action and a beautiful memory.
